Report	Students from the Department of History, SYBA (Major I) presented the story of political strategy in the royal household as a part of their course study on 15 February 2025. The women within the harem, though traditionally seen as passive, are sharp, calculating, and aware of their power. Each one has her own ambitions, desires, and rivalries. Some of them secretly work with foreign dignitaries or rival factions, hoping to secure power for themselves or their families. One could even be manipulating the Sultan to ensure a favorable alliance for her country, while another seeks to be the next in line to become the official queen. Their ability to influence the ruler without being noticed is their true strength. A total of 34 students participated in this presentation.
