PRINCIPAL

Administrator's Message

It gives me great pleasure to write these few words of congratulations to the Editorial Board of the College biannual newsletter, 'XAVIERWRITE' for successfully bringing out yet another issue that will cover the events that unfolded during these past two years. This is a newsletter that is highly informative as it records the activities undertaken by the different departments of the College and which, I am sure, does have a bearing on the academic excellence of this institution.

Another important aspect of these activities is that they are fully student-centric, in that, under the able supervision of their teachers, they act as the organisers, collect the funds for carrying out these activities, and which in turn trains them in interpersonal relationships and human approach. Also, aided by their teachers, they get trained in overcoming various hurdles which are part and parcel of our life, thus finding self-fulfilment and a sense of purpose.

I hope that the newsletter will help the staff, and the students to appreciate each other's talents, and enhance the joy of the parents on seeing the involvement of their sons and daughters during the years spent on St Xavier's campus. And these are my fond hopes that, the students will use these opportunities to rise above the run-of-the-mill attitudes to high thinking, but simple and honest living, and make Goa a land of opportunities for all.

I congratulate the Editorial Board for striving hard to get this newsletter released and all those who have contributed by way of articles, photos, drawings, and in various other ways towards its success.

May God bless everyone.

Hippo is a product of Parle Agro which is led by Mr. Ramesh Chauhan. The journey of Hippo showcases the challenges and strategies involved in product development such as attractive packaging and intriguing flavours, in marketing such as innovative campaigns, and eventual market positioning.

Hippo was special, because of its unique flavours, vibrant packaging and amusing shapes. The students also spoke about how Hippo was received by the consumers. The thing that made people grab Hippo off the shelves was the novelty and variety, fun and playfulness that it offered, and popularity it garnered among the youth.

They proceeded to explain the marketing strategies used by Parle Agro to promote Hippo which was through campaigns like the 'Plan-T' campaign. The 'Plan-T' campaign involved making full and complete use of Twitter, a social media platform, as a cost-free alternative to reach out to all supply chains. Then came in the second campaign known as IFL, that is the Indian Food League. This was a campaign that brought cricket enthusiasts, belonging to different Indian cities together during the IPL (Indian Premier League). They asked fans to come up with innovative taglines regarding their staple food of their respective Indian cities. It was their responsibility to make the taglines as amusing as they possibly could. Winners were announced on a daily basis and were given adorable Hippo bean bags. It is because of this campaign that the IPL received tremendous recognition and Hippo sales shot up.

They also explored other marketing strategies like Segmentation, Product positioning, Advertising and Promotion along with Tie-ups and Collaborations.

The students then explained to the class, how the same factors that led to Hippo's success led to its failure. The features that led to the rise and then demise of Hippo were Demand and Supply, Consumer Income and Preferences, Inflation and Pricing, Regulatory Environment and lastly, Market competition. Hippo's greatest competitors that succeeded where Hippo failed were 'Bingo!', 'Kurkure', 'Lays', 'Too Yumm!' and 'Cornitos'.

They concluded by speaking about the lessons we could learn from Hippo's journey. The case of Hippo highlighted the importance of staying agile and remaining responsive to the unpredictable economic dynamics and consumer preferences to navigate challenges and sustain success in the ever-evolving marketplace.

The enthusiastic students and teachers set out from Mapusa at around 8:30 a.m. The bus journey was quite lively and enjoyable with various groups of students engaging in conversation, some students listening to their own kind of music individually and a few of them even dancing. We arrived at our first location, the Pilar Museum. The surrounding environment was simply beautiful and the path leading to the church so serene. The architecture of the surrounding buildings was a sight to adore. A photograph of our class was clicked at the entrance of the Museum. We then began exploring the vast and historical Museum. It was sectioned into 3 parts namely; the Pre-Portuguese Govapuri, Goa under Capuchos and Carmelites and The Society of Pilar Collections. It consisted of Statues of the Kadamba Emblem and other significant sculptures depicting Goa during the earliest times. It was a great learning experience and being enlightened about the Goan roots and heritage made students feel a sense of pride in their culture. Other artefacts like stones and coins from various places around the world and a massive stamp collection caught the eye of many. The group later proceeded to the beautiful chapel right above the museum, a typical chapel with an altar sculpted of green marble and so intricately carved. The surrounding atmosphere was quiet and peaceful leaving one to reflect in harmony along the light echoing noises. The terrace of the building was a sight to behold with the overlooking landscape replicating a picture post card scene. Once everybody had completed the exploratory tour of the museum, we were ready to depart from Pilar and head towards our next destination.

The bus left Pilar at 11.00 am, we reached our destination, the Botanical Garden Selaulim at 12.25 p.m. The entrance was bordered with artistically trimmed bushes in the shapes of fish and other plants embodying various other forms (Topiary). It was truly a vivid experience walking in the garden, and soon few groups of students took shade under an individual canopy situated in the midst of the garden itself while some laid out bedsheets among the flower beds. Later, some took a trip to the dam, watching the waters gushing down in uniformity as the cold mist lightly splashed out. It was a refreshing and unique experience. Friends and teachers later enjoyed lunch while creating wonderful lasting memories. There were many activities available in the garden such as the rope bridge, an outdoor gym equipment and even a children's park. Each individual pursued their interests and had an amazing time. It was now time to say goodbye and head home after a relaxing time spent with great company. At 4:15 p.m. we departed from Salaulim, the return journey home though long, was quite memorable.

Overall, the students had a great experience, being enlightened on some historical aspects of Goa.

Students from diverse streams participated, forming teams to analyze scenarios and identify corresponding disorders. The activity fostered a dynamic and collaborative learning atmosphere, reinforcing the department's commitment to destigmatizing mental health topics.

The department orchestrated a field visit to Central Jail, Colvale, on the 17th October. TYBA Psychology students from St. Xavier's College, Mapusa, were immersed in an eye-opening exploration of the rehabilitative aspects of the penal system. Coordinated by Ms. Anuradha Kakodkar, Associate Professor, Department of Psychology, the visit aimed to reshape students' perspectives on jails as reformatory centers rather than purely punitive institutions. Beyond security checks, the students delved into the daily operations of the jail, witnessing the myriad facilities provided to inmates, from educational and vocational centers to medical facilities.

The department actively participated in a state-level seminar titled 'World Mental Health Day: Mental Health is a Universal Human Right.' Our department faculty, Dr. Eulalia Fernandes, along with five T.Y.B.A. Psychology Honours students, attended the one-day event organized by the Government College of Arts, Science and Commerce, Khandola – Marcela, Goa. Six engaging sessions, covering topics from emotional first aid training among youth to suicide prevention, were led by prominent professionals in the field. The session commenced with a unique ice-breaker exercise and a poignant video on the effects of stigma. Ms. De Souza's insights into coping with negative life events, maintaining healthy connections, and utilizing coping strategies resonated with the students. The second session, 'Caregiving,' was led by Ms. Chrissiedana Gomes from COOJ Mental Health Foundation. Through scenarios and role plays, students were sensitized to the nuances of providing care to individuals dealing with depression. The workshop was organized by Dr. Ubaldina Noronha.

The academic fervour continued with session under the Coffee Series initiated by the DHE, where final-year graduate students presented their research projects for the academic year 2023-24. On September 14, 2023 six diverse projects were unveiled, covering interesting topics of Psychological research. The faculty members provided insightful feedback, fostering an environment of scholarly growth and scientific temper. This was an initiative of Research and Development cell, St. Xavier's College, Mapusa. Bi-Annual Research Series held on November 27, 2023 included Prof. Janet Dsouza, Ms. Anuradha Kakodkar, Dr. Eulalia Fernandes, and Dr. Ubaldina Noronha, who engaged in an interactive discussion on the selected paper 'The Impact of Workaholism on Nurses' Burnout and Disillusion.' The session delved into the study conducted in Sardinia, Italy, involving 614 nurses, unraveling the intricate relationship between workaholism and burnout. Faculty comments added depth to the session, culminating in the distribution of the insightful article.

On October 5th, 2023, the FYBA, FYBCom (SEC) Psychology students, staged an act on "Importance of Mental Health" for students of St. Xavier's College. St. Xavier's College, Department of psychology had a display desk of selected psychological tests that are often used to screen depression, anxiety, stress, coping etc. The students were led under the leadership of the HOD, professor, Janet Fernandes.

In essence, the bi-annual report reflects the department's commitment to holistic education, community engagement, and scholarly pursuits. These events collectively contribute to the department's mission of nurturing well-rounded individuals equipped to address the multifaceted challenges of the contemporary world.

REPORT ON THE FIRST SESSION OF THE BI-ANNUAL RESEARCH SERIES DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY

The first interaction of the Bi-annual research series was held on 27th November 2023 at the Department of Psychology. A soft copy of the selected paper from The Open Psychology Journal, 2018, Volume 11, DOI:10.2174/18743501811010077, entitled 'The Impact of Workaholism on Nurses' Burnout and Disillusion' was emailed, at an earlier date to the faculty members of the department for reading and evaluation.

The faculty members present for the interactive session on 27th November 2023 was:

Prof. Janet Dsouza
Ms. Anuradha Kadkodkar
Dr. Eulalia Fernandes
Dr. Ubaldina Noronha

A brief summary of the entire paper was first discussed by the faculty. The relevance of the paper was highlighted along with the technical soundness. The objectives of the paper were to contribute to the ongoing research on the relationship between workaholism and burnout among nurses, focusing specially on one particular dimension of disillusion, nursing being a helping profession.

The study was carried out in Sardinia, southern Italy, from 6 hospitals in that area. The sample size was fairly large at 614, including male and female nurses coming from a cross section of various departments of the hospital. The work experience of the nurses ranged from less than a year to over 21 years. Two self-report questionnaires were used, that is the Dutch Utrecht Workaholism Scale and the Link Burnout Questionnaire. The impact of workaholism on burnout was examined using the Structural Equation Model for each of the variables under the Link Burnout Questionnaire. The variables included Psychophysical exhaustion, relational deterioration, professional inefficacy and disillusion. Even two dimensions of Workaholism were examined separately, that is Working Compulsively and Working Excessively.

Analysis of the responses linked working compulsively and working excessively to disillusion. Further working excessively also impacted psychophysical exhaustion. Correlations among the rest of the variables were relatively low. More than 26% of the nurses are affected by burnout, whereas 21% are workaholics. Working excessively is a better predictor of psychophysical exhaustion and disillusion. It can be concluded that nurses are at risk of workaholism and burnout.

After comments from the faculty, the session came to an end. A copy of the article accompanies this report.

REPORT OF THE WORKSHOP ON MENTAL HEALTH

A workshop on mental health was conducted on the 6th of October 2023 for the students of FYBA Psychology Major in the laboratory. The resource persons were welcomed with a potted plant. Then in two separate but successive sessions, they educated the students on the importance of mental health.

The first session was conducted by Ms. Aileen De Souza, from Sethu, an NGO dealing with child guidance. She spoke on the topic 'Mental Health in your hands'. We started the session with an ice-breaker exercise wherein we were given the task of picking chits and forming groups according to the name of the instrument on the chit. A video on the effects of stigma was shown and we were told to note down the points that we observed and also other factors that potentially affect mental health. The inputs given by the students were then discussed. The speaker then enlightened us on mental health and how to cope with negative events of life. The importance of taking care of our bodies, maintaining healthy connections, using coping strategies and emphasizing our strengths as a way to improve our mental health was also introduced to us. Coping strategies like mindfulness jar and daily planner were demonstrated to us.

The second session was conducted by Ms. Chrissiedana Gomes from COOJ Mental Health foundation on the topic 'Caregiving'. We were informed on the differences between mental health and mental illness. Different scenarios were given where the students had to identify ways to provide care to a person who is suffering from depression. Ways to provide care like learning about the illnesses, watch out for signs, seeking professional help and taking care of oneself were also shared with us. The importance of effective listening and communication in caregiving was also emphasized by role plays involving the students. The roleplays brought out the ideal and as well as inefficient ways of communication when a person wants to speak about their difficulties.

The workshop came to a fruitful conclusion with the presentation of tokens by the Head of Department, Prof. Janet DeSouza and a vote of thanks. Dr. Eulalia Fernandes and Dr. Ubaldina Noronha organised the entire programme with help of student volunteers of the class. Around 36 students attended the workshop.

She enlightened the audience about the challenges faced by neurodivergent individuals. The fifth session was conducted by Dr. Peter Castelino, Psychiatrist & Director, Cooj- Mental Health Foundation, on a very important topic – 'Suicide Prevention among Youth'.

Dr. Castelino read out the statistics of suicide rates globally as well as in India. He explained what drives someone to suicide and how one can recognize the warning signs, assess suicide risk, and create a safety plan for these individuals. Ms. Juliana Lohar, Coordinator, ARZ, conducted the final session titled 'Assuring Mental Health for Victims of Trauma and Abuse'. Victims of abuse require to be rescued, provided

St. Xavier's College students engage with Goa Legislative Assembly leaders during field visit

By Megan Afonso

On July 31, students from TYBA Mass Communication and Journalism at St. Xavier's College visited the Goa Legislative Assembly in Porvorim. They had an opportunity to observe a two-hour session and interact with the Deputy Speaker and MLA Joshua D'souza, Opposition Leader Yuri Alemao, and Fatorda MLA Vijay Sardesai.

The assembly session began promptly at 11:30 a.m. During the question hour, MLAs raised queries from the previous session, which proceeded smoothly. However, the atmosphere shifted dramatically during the zero hour when members of the opposition, dressed in somber black attire, stood up abruptly. They chanted slogans and held placards addressing the Manipur issue until their microphones were silenced.

Seven opposition members continued their protest, marching towards the well of the house. Despite attempts from the speaker and the house to suppress the disruption, they interrupted the member addressing the assembly, Jit Arolkar. Subsequently, the opposition members were escorted out by the marshals, and Speaker Ramesh Tawadkar imposed a two-day suspension, which was later reduced to 24 hours.

In conversations with both sides, Fatorda MLA Vijay Sardesai and Opposition Leader Yuri Alemao defended the protest as necessary, stating that the topic was chosen through a ballot system but was subsequently disregarded by the speaker. On the other hand, Deputy Speaker Joshua D'souza believed the suspension was an essential response to the situation.

The planned visit turned out to be fortuitous for the students as they witnessed a turn of event in the assembly. Jadyne Pereira, a TYBA Journalism student, expressed, "The assembly visit was undoubtedly one of the most exceptional field visits during our entire three-year tenure. It felt like we were part of something truly remarkable, and personally, I was pleasantly overwhelmed by how the visit surpassed my expectations."

Anushka Essani, another student from TYBA Mass Communication, appreciated the insights into the functioning of the lower house, stating, "Every citizen should attend an assembly session at least once to understand the workings of the government and its engagement with the citizens."

On July 31, the students of TYBA Mass Communication and Journalism of St. Xavier's College went on a field visit to the Goa Legislative Assembly, Porvorim. They got an opportunity to attend a two hour session and also speak to the Deputy Speaker and MLA Joshua D'souza, Opposition Leader Yuri Alemao, and Fatorda MLA Vijay Sardesai.

The assembly session commenced at 11:30 a.m. The MLA's raised questions from the previous assembly and the question hour went on smoothly. That was until a point came during the zero hour where the audience went from yawning about the preceding to being wide awake. While the MLA's were having a discussion, the members of the opposition, all dressed in black, stood up abruptly. They began shouting out slogans holding placards of the Manipur issue until their mics were turned off. In a brave move, the seven members pulled out slogans and paraded towards the well of the house. When the speaker and house began to shut them down, they proceeded to interrupt the member speaking; Jit Arolkar. The opposition were then escorted out by the marshals. Speaker Ramesh Tawadkar suspended them for two days, later which was reduced to 24 hours.

Speaking to both the sides, the opposition party, Fatorda MLA Vijay Sardesai and Opposition Leader Yuri Alemao, believed the move was necessary as the topic was chosen in the ballot system but the speaker sidelined it. The Deputy Speaker Joshua D'souza said the suspension was the need of the hour.

GOENCHI ASMITAI CELL

Goa is home to vibrant cultural groups that exist in harmony with nature, and they play an important role in preserving local traditions. The Goenchi Asmitai Cell of St. Xavier's College strives to promote and sensitise students on the traditional artistic manifestations of Goa including folklore, local crafts, literature and music. It also aims to build a secular attitude towards the multicultural heritage of Goa and preserve its unique identity.

In view of the above, the Goenchi Asmitai Cell exuberated the sprawling lush-green campus of St. Xavier's College on 17 October 2023, with several activities, connecting students and faculty with the cherished age-old traditions of the state. Several events were organised on this occasion. The event commenced by the playing of the alvorada, the traditional brass band music that heralded a joyful occasion in the Goan village in the days of yore.

Students from FY, Yash Salgoankar, Ayush Narvenkar and Ayush Chimulkar enacted the roles of Dr. Jack de Siqueira, Shri Purshottam Kakodkar and Dr. Alvaro Furtado. The spectators were reminded of the sacrifices of these Goan nationalists as well as others who strived tirelessly to preserve the unique status of the Union Territory in 1967.

Some space in the college campus was demarcated to recreate the traditional Goan village life of the bygone era. It was a reminder of the past heritage, and the evolving culture of Goa in contemporary times. The Principal of the Institution, Prof. Blanche Mascarenhas appreciated the efforts of the Cell and explained the importance of preserving the Goan identity. The Administrator of the College, Fr. Tony Salema explained that such events made him nostalgic of the good old days and reminisce about the past.

The Principal of the College, Prof. Blanche Mascarenhas supported the concept of the event and encouraged students to participate in the same. The Vice Principals of the College, Ms. Ursula Barreto and Ms. Sandra Fernandes also observed that such events have to encouraged among students.

Stalls on diverse food of Goa was a gourmet's delight and served as one of highlights of the event. Students of the institution were encouraged to use locally available ingredients in food preparation and made conscious that food that is locally grown is more nutritious. A beautiful display of home-cooked and traditional Goan recipes made the 'Asmitai Day' unique. Food served in earthenware captured nostalgic memories of the past. Organic farm produce such as the bananas, jackfruits, coconuts, cashews and nuts, along with fragrant flowers educated the youth on the significance of organic farming. The colonial influence on the gastronomic culture of Goa was exhibited through the display and sale of the bebinca, pão com chouriço, batica and other aromatic lip-smacking delicacies by students of FYBA and SYBA. Likewise, the event was a heaven of local delicacies that included samarachi kodi, sanna, chana ros, alle belle, raagi satva and so on. The traditional Hindu cuisine on display was another attraction of the event. The audience was mesmerised with the musical skills of students who regaled the audience with melodious Konkani music.

The ambience of the Goan comunidade system was recreated by students of TYBA by enacting the role of various service providers of the village. The event was choreographed by Fenisia Fernandes of TYBA. Ms. Likewise, Goan life is steeped in traditions. It was beautifully relived on the college campus through various performances by students. An added attraction of the Day was the village well. It was a reminder to the Goan youth that decades ago, it served not only the source of water for the villagers, but a meeting point for social interaction.

The FYBSc students exhibited several varieties of plants of medicinal value to popularise the benefits of the traditional healthcare system of Goa. Some cash crops of Goa were also on display.

Goan culture is incredibly rich in music and dance. The skilful young performers of St. Xavier's College delighted the spectators with their flexible moves. Folk and Indo-Portuguese dances rescripted narratives of the vibrant culture of the State of Goa. Fr. Ramiro Luis was also instrumental in motivating students to be a part of this event and rendered guidance for the event. Ms. Katherine Manuel and Ms. Swara Dharwadkar, students from SYBA regaled the hearts of the audience with their skills of oratory and communication. The annual general body meeting of the PTA of St. Xavier's College Mapusa Goa, was held on the 12th of September 2023 at 9 am at the College Arc.

The meeting commenced with a prayer, followed by the welcome address by the Principal, Prof. Blanche Mascarenhas. The principal thanked the parents for attending the meeting and implored them to ensure that their children were appropriately dressed, reach college on time, and to inculcate the values of patience in them.

The minutes of the previous general body meeting were read in English by the Secretary of the PTA, Dr. Claudette Gomes, followed by the Konkani translation by Ms. Siddhi Gawas. The minutes were proposed by Ms. Benazir D'Sa and seconded by Mr. Vidyakar Phalak.

In the matters arising, the principal explained that parents representing students from first year and second year continue on, and elections for parent representatives for third year were to be sought since they would be passing out. The principal also clarified that medical leave for long periods would not enable students to answer exams unless accompanied by a medical fitness certificate.

The Chairperson of the PTA, Ms. Yvette Pais in her address welcomed parents specially of the first year students and briefed the audience of the projects of smart board installations and disabled friendly ramps and washrooms taken up in the previous year.

She thanked her team, the teaching, non-teaching staff and parents for their cooperation during her tenure.

The new parent members for the term 2023-2025 were elected as follows

FYBA- Ms Edna Fernandes

FYBCom- Mr Domnic Braganza

FYBSc- Ms. Mexilla Govis

TYBSc- Ms Mellba Gomes

BCA- Mr Kenneth D'Silva

BBA- Charles Heredia

BBA TnT- Since no parent was present, this post was to be nominated later.

In his address , the Administrator Rev. Fr. Salema commented that the stake holders-parents, staff and management need synodality. He thanked the outgoing Chairperson Ms. Yvette and explained that while 32 smart boards were already installed, about 50% of classrooms still need to be upgraded. He also requested parent to sensitise their children to respect property specially since it is their parent's money that contributes towards it.

The outgoing members, Ms Yvette, Ms.Aruna, Ms Elaine were felicated in person and in proxy at the hands of the principal and administrator.

The Principal also stated that ragging was a serious offence, and any written complaint received by her could result in a police complaint if the anti ragging committee so felt.

Under the AOB, the principal asked the parents for their opinion on enforcing uniforms for the students. While few parents were for it, a majority of parents felt that uniforms inhibit individuality, and only the few inappropriately dressed students could be punished. It wouldn't be fair to enforce a uniform for all the students.

It was suggested that the PTA would further decide the punishment to be levied for digression from the dress code.

Fr. Tony also requested parents of students coming to college in vehicles to make sure their children did come to college, and told parents they could even physically visit the college.

In the Vote of thanks. Dr Vijay Viegas thanked all parents for entrusting the college with their children. He also thanked the outgoing members specially the chairperson Ms. Yvette for her hard working nature and bubbly personality.

'IN MEMORIAM'

Mrs. Flaviia de Souza e Barbosa joined the Department of Physics, St. Xavier's College in the year 1969. Soft spoken, warm and caring, she touched the hearts and minds of generations of students through her motherly tenderness and approachability. Her command over the subject, lucidity of thought and expression, and excellent teaching skills made her lectures an intellectual delight. She possessed the ability to masterfully utilize daily-life examples in ensuring that her students understood and grasped the nuances of Physics. Her students still recall, with gratitude, her simple-to-understand lecture notes which greatly reduced the reference time they spent in the College library. She unfailingly interspersed the subject matter with value education, thereby attempting to mould the character of her students. Her systematic and organized demeanour was especially evident during the laboratory sessions wherein the students were treated to a veritable feast-spread of knowledge through hands-on experience supplemented with an appropriate and concise explanation of the theoretical background.

Mrs. Barbosa was constrained to opt for voluntary retirement in the year 1996 due to illness.

She passed away on November 1st, 2023.

While deeply mourning her passing, we pray for the repose of her soul. We also extend our heartfelt condolences to her bereaved family.

Ph.D AWARD

Dr Shefali Kale, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Philosophy defended her doctoral thesis on 7th November, 2023 at Goa University. She completed her PhD in Philosophy, titled “Women and Religion : A Study in Feminist Philosophy”, under the guidance of Prof. Koshy Tharakan, Dean, School of Sanskrit, Philosophy and Indic Studies, Goa University.

The objective of the study titled, 'Religion and Women: A Study in Feminist Philosophy', was to explore the attitudes of major and minor religions of the East and West towards women. Secondly by employing the conceptual structures of feminist philosophy, it sought to uncover the prejudices perpetuated by patriarchy against women in religions. The study was based on the hypothesis that religion acts as one of the societal structures which has played a pivotal role in suppressing and dehumanizing women. The methodology used was standpoint feminist methodology. The findings are, traditionally religion acts as an agent of oppression for women because the major religions are patriarchal. Women learn about themselves from the religious scriptures which were written/interpreted by men. Modes of knowledge which are male-centered have led to misconceptions and prejudices about women. Women thus need an epistemological framework which makes them the subject of study, which is provided by the feminist standpoint theory.
