Report	This interactive academic activity was organized to enhance students' understanding of the various sectoral transformations that have contributed to India's economic development. Objectives 1. To create awareness among students and visitors about the various colour-coded revolutions that contributed to India's economic development. 2. To encourage students to research, creatively present and visually communicate economic concepts through posters. Outcomes 1. Students gained a better understanding of the different revolutions and their significance to India's economic development. 2. The poster gallery provided an engaging visual learning experience for the wider college community, while enhancing students' creativity and research skills. A total of 60 students participated in the activity, working in teams of three, forming 20 teams. Each team prepared an informative poster highlighting its meaning, sector, major developments, significance and contribution to India's economy. The activity encouraged students to research economic concepts, work collaboratively and present information in a creative and visually appealing manner. The activity was designed not merely as a poster-making exercise but as a means of connecting classroom concepts with India's economic transformation. Students explored how different revolutions have contributed to food security, agricultural diversification, rural employment, technological advancement, industrial development and sustainable growth. The posters were displayed in the College Lobby. Overall, the activity was an enriching and interactive learning experience that combined creativity, teamwork, research and economic understanding, while highlighting the diverse revolutions that have shaped India's development journey.
