Report	FY Student Induction Programme: Awareness of Anti-Ragging Rules and Regulations The general orientation session under the Student Induction Programme aimed to familiarise First Year (FY) students from all streams across the college with the rules and regulations concerning ragging and sensitise them to the importance of maintaining a safe, respectful, and disciplined campus environment. Students were informed that the college takes strict action against ragging and that all forms of ragging are prohibited on campus. Referring to Point 20, page 38, of the College Handbook, they were made aware that anyone found indulging in ragging would face appropriate disciplinary action, which may include expulsion from the college. Further, students were informed by the faculty member conducting the session for each stream about the provision for collective punishment, as per the Supreme Court order, in cases where individuals committing or abetting ragging cannot be identified. This was explained as a deterrent measure intended to create collective pressure on potential offenders and discourage such behaviour. Through this orientation, students were encouraged to understand the seriousness of ragging, recognise the consequences of violating college regulations, and appreciate their responsibility in upholding the institution's rules. The session sought to strengthen awareness of anti-ragging measures and foster a shared commitment to a safe, inclusive, and respectful learning environment.
